Latest Report on Six-Mos. Reserve Training Program

During the months of August and September, 352 trainees reported to the Coast Guard Receiving Centers; 219 men traveled to Cape May; 133 men went to Alameda. The transfers to Alameda included the first 3 men to report for this training from the 14th District.

September enlistment reports are not completed as we go to press; however, as of August 31st 1793 men had been enlisted in the program since it opened and 1761 have been transferred to the training centers.

Six-Months' Program Is Tops With Nation's Young Men! . . . . .

There is a seabag full of reasons "why" the Coast Guard Reserve six-months' training program is tops with the Nation's young men today! High on the list of opportunities this enlistment plan offers is the fact that most of a six-months trainee's service time can be fulfilled in his hometown. Membership in a local Organized Reserve Training Unit, however, doesn't mean a Reservist can just sit back, spin yarns about his six-months of active duty for training and settle down like a retired old salt. No sir! There are many ways such a fellow can serve his country, earn his keep, and deserve his identity as a Coast Guardsman.

For example, there's recruiting! After a man completes his six-months of active duty and returns to his hometown unit, he should also "turn to" and help the Coast Guard tell other young men in the community about the Reserve program. Now this sounds like a pretty easy and obvious thing to expect of a young man just back from his first tour of active duty for training because a fellow just naturally wants to tell his friends about the new things that happen to him. However, while this extra-curricular assignment may sound like a simple matter of holding a bull-session with the fellows, this could be the very get-together when the right young men learn for the first time that the Coast Guard Reserve has a Six-Months Trainee program. Just knowing this fact these days is enough to start a fellow cruising toward a Coast Guard Recruiting Office or an ORTU drill center. Why? Because it is only common sense for a young man to figure out that in the Coast Guard Reserve he can serve in the best program available today and he can serve most of this enlistment time right there at home among his own friends and family!

So don't be the kind of Coast Guard Reservist who goes home to his unit after six months of active duty for training and just sits on his duffle bag like an ancient mariner. And don't be the kind of six months of active duty graduate who just hangs around the smoking lamp area like a retired country store proprietor telling whoppers around the pot-bellied stove. Be a fellow

When a new Coast Guard ORTU was recently commissioned at Hyannis, Massachusetts, Rear Admiral Edwin J. Roland, USCG, Commander of the First District, headed the list of dignitaries present for the ceremonies. Here Admiral Roland is being welcomed by Lieutenant Commander Admont C. Clark, USCGR, first Commanding Officer of the new unit, while Commander W. D. Strauch, Jr., USCG, looks on at the left. Commander Strauch is currently assigned to the First District office as Director of the Reserve.

Reserve Pistol Team at Nat'l Matches

Seven Reservists joined sixteen Regulars to represent the Coast Guard in the 1957 National Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, from 11-17 August. Approximately 1250 shooters participated in the matches this year. The Reserve Team was composed of:

LCDR Richard McMahill, VTU
05-8 Washington, D. C., Master

LCDR Edward J. Walsh, C3CGD
Active Status Pool, NYC, Master

LT Wallace G. Angel, ORTUPS
05-149, Washington, D. C., Master

LTJG F. A. Frauenfelder,
ORTUPS 02-565, Cincinnati, Ohio, Master

Papuga, Frank E., ESGCA,
ORTUPS 05-149, Washington, D.C., Master

Wolz, David J. ESG1, ORTUPS
05-149, Washington, D. C., Expert

Kiely, John P., SN, ORTUPS 02-565, Cincinnati, Ohio, Expert

LTJG Frauenfelder beat 238 other Reservists from the other Armed Forces to win first places in the master class in the Center Fire Rapid Fire Match and in the Center Fire Aggregate event. Other medal winners were:

LTJG Frauenfelder--3d place in National Match Course

Papuga, ESGC--150th of 1058 in the National Trophy Individual Match, good for one leg on the Coast Guard Distinguished Pistol Shot Medal.

Wolz, ESG1--3d place in .22 Caliber

Timed Fire
7th place in .22 Caliber Aggregate Score

6th place in .45 Caliber Slow Fire

Although the Second Army Reserve Team went home as the first winners of the Coast Guard Memorial Trophy, the Coast Guard Reserve showing was encouraging for the first participation in the National Matches.

Eight-Page Issue Will Mark Anniversary

The November 1957 issue of The Coast Guard RESERVIST will be expanded to eight pages to celebrate the fourth birthday of this publication. The anniversary edition will spotlight a report on Reserve summer training activities and will also include a greeting to the SPARS who will celebrate their fifteenth anniversary in November.

Summer training pictures and reports will be welcome for publication in this issue of The Coast Guard RESERVIST. Material submitted will be considered for publication on the basis of activity shown or described, military appearance of Reserve personnel photographed, and promptness of submittals to Commandant (PR).

Movies Available To ORTUs for Showings

Commandant (CPI) has a library of Coast Guard motion pictures available upon request to ORTUs for public showings in their communities. District offices and ORTU drill centers have recently been furnished an up-to-date list of these films which may be borrowed from Headquarters. The list also explains which motion pictures have been cleared for use on local television stations.

Why not make November and December "Movie Months" in your community? Use this material which is available to you to promote the Coast Guard and Reserve activities in your hometown. Give your community a chance to really know and understand their oldest, continuous seagoing Armed Force.

The Coast Guard RESERVIST will be glad to hear how many Coast Guard films you were able to book in your hometown. Let's see which Organized Reserve Training Unit can chalk up the most community bookings. We'd like to run the score on this in a future issue.

Remember . . . these motion pictures are available at Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington, D. C. For more information, check the film list sent to your unit.

Reminders For Those Serving Today

Once in awhile, when some of us get a case of the military obligation "blues", it's a good idea to look back through American history and remember what other young men have done to build and preserve the Nation. For example, let's take a look at a few past Octobers:

October, 1777
General Washington's Army was making camp for a bitter winter at Valley Forge.

October, 1862
Over 100,000 troops were engaged in battle with 12,000 Union Army casualties and 11,000 Confederate Army casualties.

October, 1917
The first shot was fired by American troops in France.

October, 1944
The Battle for Leyte Gulf was taking place. This was the biggest naval action ever fought.

October, 1950
United States and associated troops took Pyongyang, North Korean capital.

QUESTION, 1957
How will YOUR drill meeting attendance record look this year?

Retired Pay Authorized For Certain Former Coast Guard Reservists. . .

Congress has recently passed and the President has signed a statute which authorizes the Coast Guard to pay retired pay to certain former members of the Coast Guard Reserve who were discharged between 18 February 1941 and 1 January 1949. The statute applies to "Any former member of the Coast Guard Reserve, other than a temporary member, honorably discharged or discharged under honorable conditions from the Coast Guard Reserve after 18 February 1941, and before 1 January 1949, who at the time of his discharge, had completed at least 30 years of active service in the Armed Forces other than active duty for training, or who had completed at least 20 years of active service other than active duty for training, the last ten of which he served in the eleven year period immediately preceding his discharge. . . ." It provides that such a person shall, after he makes request therefor, be placed on the retired list of the Coast Guard Reserve and . . . shall be entitled to receive the same retired pay, only after being placed on the retired list, that he would be entitled to receive had he been retired as a member of the Naval Reserve under the Naval Reserve Act of 1938 instead of being discharged."

The statute is designed to authorize the Coast Guard to pay retired pay to individuals with at least 20 years of active service who were separated from the Reserve by discharge between 18 February 1941 and 1 January 1949, during which time there was no authority for the Coast Guard to retire Reservists, except for disability (the first non-disability retirement law was Public Law 810 which was passed in June 1948). This recent statute is Public Law 85-149 and became effective on 16 August 1957.

Since a qualified individual must request placement on the retired list in order to receive the benefits of the statute, wide dissemination of information as to passage of this law is desired in order that "the word" may reach any former member of the Reserve who can qualify under the terms of the statute.

Can YOU Top This?

Lieutenant Kenneth C. Ziegfeld, USCGR, was assigned to Naval Reserve Aviation VP Squadron, Naval Aviation Reserve Training Unit, Anacostia, D.C., on May 16, 1952. He has had perfect attendance at all weekend drills and squadron active duty for training periods since that date.

Congratulations to Lieutenant Ziegfeld!

ORTUPS 02-565 Has New Drilling Location

The drilling location of ORTUPS 02-565 has been changed from the U.S. Naval and Marine Corps Training Center, Cincinnati, Ohio, to the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center, 640 West Third Street, Covington, Kentucky.

with a bit of pride and dash about his Service and his choice of enlistment program. Let the fellows know how they can be wise and latch onto the best plan offered today for meeting military obligation. Get this information spread all over town and see how much influence a Reservist really can swing with fellows his own age in his own community. This is recruiting and it can be fun!
